Primary schools federation celebrate good Ofsted reports

TWO schools linked under a federation have been rated as "good" by Ofsted following inspections in the latter half of 2012.

St Ann's Church of England Primary School, in Avenue Road, South Tottenham, has held the rating since 1997. However, St Michael's Church of England Primary School, in Bounds Green Road, Wood Green, improved to that level from its previous rating of "satisfactory" in 2009.

The two schools have been working together in a soft federation under the executive leadership of Linda Sarr since January 2010.

During the two-day inspection of St Michael's, Ofsted inspectors found that: "All groups of pupils make good progress from their starting points because of good teaching... pupils are clear about their goals and how to improve".

St Michael's Ofsted judgement is in line with a rapid rate of improvement in pupils' attainment and achievement. In the 2011/12 academic year, pupils made the most progress between Year 2 and Year 6 compared to all other schools in the borough.

Ms Sarr believes the Ofsted judgements are well deserved and reflect the commitment of the excellent staff at both schools.

Well done: Head of St Ann's Mark Lancaster, executive head Linda Sarr and head of St Michael's Grant Bright celebrate with some of the pupils from the schools

She said: "We have some absolutely fantastic, dedicated and hard-working staff and governors at both St Ann's and St Michael's, and some very talented children and engaged parents and carers.

"The reports endorse our strong view that the joint working through our federation of schools has significantly improved outcomes of our children. This is a great opportunity to celebrate the achievements of our school communities."

Peter signs up for fundraising scheme

A TOTTENHAM campaigner is one of the first to access an innovative crowd-funding platform.

Peter Olawaye is among eight young people selected to be a part of Igniter, an online tool that allows social activists to raise funds for community projects by attracting small investments from members of the public.

The 22-year-old is trying to raise money for his project Aiming Skywards, a youth-led organisation that gives young people the opportunity to participate in workshops, peer-led mentoring and employment programmes.

"I'm so excited to be part of vInspired Igniter," Peter said. "It's such a new way to raise funds and it feels great to be part of something so cutting edge."

"I'm so passionate about my project and this way of gaining funding seems so positive - every time I receive a donation, it feels great to know that someone else is behind me and wants me to turn it into a reality."

To help fund Peter's project, visit igniter.vinspired.com/projects/aiming-skywards

He has also launched Hackney 2 City, which equips NEET's aged 16 to 21 with employability skills plus a work placement.

Free appliance checks

AGE UK Haringey will be providing free electric blankets and energy-saving light bulbs to older people next Thursday at its Warm and Healthy in Haringey event.

It takes place at The Salvation Army Centre, in Lymington Avenue, Wood Green, between noon and 3pm.

Those aged 60 and over can also bring portable electrical appliances to be tested free of charge, while electric blankets deemed faulty or more than five years old will be replaced for free.

Call 020 8801 2444 for more information.

ASSOCIATION SUBMITS PLANS FOR 173 HOMES

A HOUSING association has applied for permission to build 173 new homes on the former St Luke's Hospital site in Muswell Hill.

Hanover says more than 600 people attended three public exhibitions in June, September and November last year during an extensive consultation period, with 75 per cent backing the plan.

It aims to provide housing predominantly for over-55s, allowing them to downsize to smaller properties and free up larger homes for younger families in the borough.

A key element of the project is the revitalisation of the garden landscape at the centre of the site and the design also incorporates a green north-south pedestrian and cycle link between Grand Avenue

Vision: An artist's impression of how the development will look once it is completed and Woodside Avenue. It is planned to bring the three listed and locally listed buildings back into use by converting the existing buildings into flats.

The proposals also incorporate a co-housing scheme for the Woodside Co-Housing group, which was set up by a group of residents who want to create their own community.

Around 150 car parking spaces are planned, with 100 of them underground.

Bruce Moore, chief executive of Hanover, said: "Our research has shown there is a strong demand in Haringey for this type of housing, where older people are making positive choices to downsize from under-occupied family homes to attractive housing well-designed for their changing needs."

St Luke's operated as an inpatient hospital for mental health patients from the mid-1920s, but has been largely unused since 2009.

In 2011, Camden and Islington NHS Foundation Trust took the decision to sell the whole site and lease back only Simmons House for its continuing use.

Hanover now owns the whole site. For more information, visit www.stlukesmuswellhill.co.uk

Belt tightening sparks cut in police numbers

By Mary McConnell

THE number of police community support officers patrolling the streets of Enfield has dropped by 40 per cent since 2010, shocking new figures revealed this week.

There has also been a significant drop in the number of front-line police constables in the borough, with 44 fewer PCs at the end of March 31 2012 compared with March 31 2010 – a reduction of 7.3 per cent. Over the same period of time the number of PCSOs in Enfield dropped from 170 to 102.

Critics say the figures are unacceptable at a time when Enfield has suffered from rioting and a spate of fatal stabbings in the past few years.

Negus McClean, 15, student Steven Grisales, 21, and 14-year-old Leroy James were all stabbed to death in the borough in 2011 – and in August 2011 many thugs took to the streets of Enfield to take part in rioting and looting in the town centre.

The Metropolitan Police says the drop in numbers is down to the tightening of budgets. Edmonton MP Andy Love is alarmed at the figures.

“David Cameron needs to explain why Boris Johnson has allowed so many front-line police staff to be axed in London, despite promising otherwise, especially at a time of growing concern about gang crime and over a period that

Dwindling: The number of police constables in Enfield is down 7.3 per cent and community support officers have dropped by 40 per cent included major riots,” he said. “Enfield residents should be able to feel safe on their own streets.

“Having visible police and PCSO presence was a good way of achieving that. By cutting these vital front-line staff we risk seeing an escalation of crime in our area, which is completely unacceptable.”

A spokeswoman from the Met said: “We previously stopped recruiting police officers when we were uncertain of future budgets. However, when it was announced in the financial year 2011/2012 that we would receive an extra £90million, we recruited more officers.

As many of the new recruits were serving PCSOs there was a drop in numbers.

“However, we are moving 2,000 officers back on to the streets and in our neighbourhoods from other roles, so safer neighbourhood teams can focus on crime fighting.”

A spokeswoman from the London Mayor's office put the drop in numbers down to the Olympics and added: “Recruitment was put on hold during the Olympics but unlike many other parts of the country, the Metropolitan Police is now training new officers and numbers will rise again this year.”

Chance to question Met chiefs

POLICE chiefs are coming to Enfield next week as part of a public consultation on neighbourhood policing in the capital.

Members of the public will be able to put questions to leading Metropolitan Police officers at a public meeting at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield, on Monday, starting at 8pm.

The meeting, which will begin with a presentation by Stephen Greenhalgh, London's deputy mayor for policing and crime, is part of a public consultation on the draft Police and Crime Plan.

The plan includes proposals to boost the force with 2,000 extra officers and cut key neighbourhood crime by 20 per cent over the next four years.

Mr Greenhalgh said: “Policing in the capital is changing and we want to hear the views of Londoners.

“In these challenging economic times, tough decisions will have to be made – but ultimately we want to boost public confidence in the police, cut crime and drive down waste.”

Secret lives of the wartime refugees who kept tabs on Nazi prisoners of war at Trent Park

By Ruth McKee

WHEN German generals captured during World War II were given free rein to roam the leafy grounds of Trent Park, they found themselves laughing at the British, who were apparently allowing them to sit out the conflict in the cushiest of circumstances.

Little did they know, however, that the stately home, which was owned by the Sassoon family, was playing a major role in the British war effort.

And the generals were at the heart of an intelligence operation aimed at finding out some of the Nazis' darkest secrets.

During World War II, Trent Park, in the north west of Enfield, had been requisitioned by the British intelligence services for use as a prisoner-of-war camp and was home to Nazi generals.

The officers, captured in north Africa, France or shot down in bombing raids over Britain, were invited to amuse themselves by playing billiards in the grand rooms of the house, treated to full meals and taken on day trips into central London and even to country retreats.

Unknown to the Germans, however, was the fact that the luxurious lifestyle they were being invited to enjoy was part of a plan designed to make them let their guard down. And furthermore, a secret army of listeners was hidden in the bowels of Trent Park.

The team of native German-speaking Austrian and German Jewish refugees, who had fled from the Nazis before the war, were asked to record and translate every incriminating word that the generals uttered in the hope that crucial state secrets would casually be discussed.

The extent to which these recordings helped the Allies to victory has been investigated by historian and author Helen Fry, who spent three years researching the subject for her new book The M Room: Secret Listeners Who Bugged The Nazis.

Trawling through box upon box of transcripts, she discovered how the secret listeners in Trent Park and two other bugged POW camps in Buckinghamshire were as valuable to British intelligence during the war as Bletchley Park and the Enigma code breakers.

The historian, from Golders Green, revealed: "In one of the bugged operations they heard the Germans talking about where U-boats were being kept – U-boat pens.

"These were places the Germans had built underground and the listening operation revealed that these pens existed and they also revealed where they were."

But, along with detailed accounts of armaments and equipment, Mrs Fry's research revealed the listeners learned shocking details about Nazi atrocities against Jews, gypsies and other victims.

"They just got on with their jobs," said Mrs Fry, explaining how the listeners were able to use their hatred of the Nazi regime as motivation for their work.

"They were very loyal to Britain. They were proud to serve Britain, proud to be doing something to stop Nazi aggression."

Fritz Lustig, who is now 93 and lives in Muswell Hill, is one of two surviving listeners from the three bugged camps. He fled to Britain from Berlin in 1939 after the extensive persecution of Jewish people.

"After Kristallnacht [state-sanctioned attacks against Jewish people, businesses and synagogues in November 1938], everybody realised that it was essential to get out of Germany," Mr Lustig told the Advertiser.

He arrived in London on a one-year visa in April 1939 – and when war broke out in September of that year, Mr Lustig was determined to do everything he could to fight Adolf Hitler.

He was initially part of the pioneer labour force that was responsible for digging trenches, but he wanted to do more to join the fight against Nazism.

And when a friend told him the British intelligence services were looking for native German speakers, Mr Lustig leapt at the chance.

Three years of research: Helen Fry trailed through box upon box of transcripts before writing The M Room

OBEs for Olympic stars

THE borough's double gold-medallist Olympic stars Laura Trott and Charlotte Dujardin both received gongs. Cyclist Laura, 20, who grew up in Cheshunt, was awarded an OBE, as was 27-year-old dressage winner Charlotte, who was born in Enfield.

Double delight

MBEs for stalwart volunteers the ambulance brigade – and

By Ruth McKee

A WOMAN who has devoted half a century to disability swimming and a stalwart of the St John Ambulance brigade are among those who were named in the Queen's New Year's Honours.

Grandmother-of-four Jackie White, from Enfield, was awarded an MBE in recognition of her 50 years of dedicated service to Halliwick Penguins, giving one-to-one coaching to disabled swimmers at Southgate Leisure Centre, in Winchmore Hill Road.

"I volunteered when I was 17 and I have continued ever since," said Mrs White, who admitted that she was "very honoured" to have had her tireless efforts recognised by the Queen.

"I thought that it is something that happens to other people, not to me," she added, describing her shock at having the letter containing the news land on her doorstep towards the end of last year.

Mrs White started volunteering because she had always loved swimming – but knew that if she didn't go to a club every week she would let her hobby slide.

Although the modest grandmother admitted she was surprised with the honour, she explained why volunteers were so important for her swimming group.

"The people who come wouldn't be able to go swimming on their own," she said. "The coaching is one-to-one because they need to have somebody with them."

"I suppose it is quite labour intensive but it is so rewarding and we often have young people volunteer with us who are doing their Duke Of Edinburgh's Award."

St John Ambulance stalwart Ann Cable, of Canford Close, Enfield, was also awarded an MBE for her dedication after spending four decades volunteering for the brigade.

But the 59-year-old insisted she didn't look at the honour as one bestowed specifically on her but rather as recognition of the first aid charity as a whole.

"It is a great privilege to be honoured in this way and I feel very Could you adopt for Enfield?

You could make a difference to a child...

Every year, there are thousands of children throughout the UK needing a new permanent family. In Enfield we have children from many different backgrounds, cultures and religions and we need new families to reflect this. Children may be placed for adoption as single children or they may need to be placed with their brothers or sisters.

Enfield Adoption Service will ensure families get all the information and support they need both before and after adoption. Adopting is about making a real difference to a child's life.

We understand it's a complex subject and that the decision to adopt is a huge one that can't be taken lightly.

proud of all the St John Ambulance volunteers do," she told the Advertiser.

The mother-of-two revealed that her civic-minded instincts first kicked in when she was just ten years old.

Mrs Cable said that when she was younger she had wanted to be a nurse and to help people, so when St John Ambulance gave a talk in her primary school she decided the charity was for her.

"It has made me feel very humble and that really through the organisation you see the whole spectrum of humanity," she added.

"When people are injured or unwell, they desperately want to see a friendly face. I think the more people who know first aid the better."

Also awarded an MBE was Peter Gross, assistant headmaster of Enfield Grammar School, who was honoured for services to education.

JOINING Enfield's roll of honour is Shaun Lansfield, who has been awarded a British Empire Medal, a once-defunct honour that was reinstated in 2011 to celebrate the Queen's Diamond Jubilee.

The health and safety officer, 44, from Edmonton, was recognised for his work in helping residents join together in the community.

"I am very honoured and proud to have received this award," he told the Advertiser.

Heron Hall
ACADEMY

Heron Hall opens its doors in September 2013, with three Year 7 forms. There is still time to apply for a place for your child at this new secondary academy run and managed by Cuckoo Hall Academies Trust (CHAT).

As a brand new academy directly funded by the Department for Education, we sit outside of the local Borough application process for secondary education this year.

So although the London Borough of Enfield Common Application Form process has now closed, you can still apply for a place at Heron Hall, up to 31st January 2013.

Heron Hall is being opened by the same management team which already runs the "outstanding" (Ofsted-rated) primary academy, Cuckoo Hall.

Cuckoo Hall has just been ranked in the top 2% of all state primaries in England in an official Sunday Times "league table" based on Key Stage 2 SATs results*.

It is this exceptionally high standard of achievement that CHAT is looking to extend into the secondary sector in Enfield with our opening of Heron Hall.

To take advantage of this exciting new development in secondary education, visit our website at www.heronhallacademy.org.uk for more information and an Application Form.

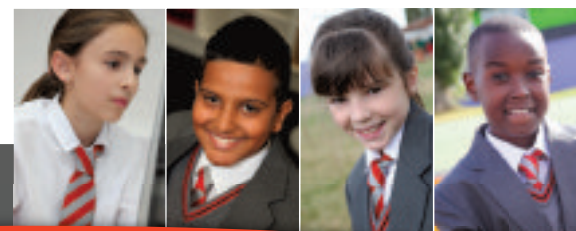

You can also pick up an Application Form from the Cuckoo Hall school office in Cuckoo Hall Lane, Edmonton N9 8DR or contact us for more information on 020 8804 4126.

Facelift: Enfield Council is leading a £23m regeneration scheme of Ponders End to improve transport, public spaces, housing and shopping areas there

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

TfL gives £200k towards Ponders End makeover

By Mary McConnell

AMBITIOUS plans to redevelop Ponders End were given a boost this week after Transport for London agreed to give £200,000 towards the project.

The money, which will go towards developing plans to improve transport links and public spaces in the area, is expected to be followed by a further £1.8million in 2014/15 to carry out the project.

The plans are part of a wider £23million regeneration scheme being driven by Enfield Council to improve transport, public spaces, shopping areas and housing in Ponders End.

According to council chiefs, the TfL money will be used to improve road safety and make it easier for pedestrians and cyclists to get around High Street, as well as improving bus services and waiting areas for passengers.

It is hoped that the investment will help to reduce crime and antisocial behaviour in the area.

Enfield's cabinet member for environment Chris Bond said the council would develop the plans before they were put out for consultation.

"The rejuvenation of Ponders End is a major priority for us and this money will help us improve links across High Street and make it significantly easier for people to get around the area on foot, by bus or on their bikes," he said.

Enfield's cabinet member for business and regeneration Del Goddard added: "We are doing an incredible amount of work to regenerate Ponders End and this funding will help us develop an effective plan to make the area more accessible and attract businesses and customers to the town centre.

"We are a pro-business council and the success of this bid demonstrates we are determined to do everything we can to build and maintain a strong and vibrant town centre where businesses can thrive."

Government grant will enable all homes to recycle their food waste

Council gets £2.46m to improve refuse services

By Nicola Bartlett

ALL households in Enfield will be able to recycle food waste after council chiefs announced a £2.5million plan to roll out the service to every property in the borough.

The change will mean that all properties, including flats, will be provided with access to food recycling services.

Enfield Council received a £2.46million grant from the government after submitting a bid to the Weekly Collection Support Scheme and the money will be used to improve all of its refuse and recycling services.

Local authorities are charged for refuse which is not recycled – and councillors say that these proposals will save taxpayers money in the long term.

Enfield cabinet member for environment Chris Bond said: "It's fantastic news that we are able to expand our food waste service thanks in part to this government grant.

"We are already saving £1million a year by increasing our recycling rates and diverting waste away from landfill, therefore paying less in expensive landfill taxes, and we hope to increase our recycling rates and reduce our costs further in the future."

Food waste in landfill sites produces methane, a greenhouse gas, which most scientists believe is contributing to global warming.

However, the food and garden waste collected from Enfield households for recycling is sent to a plant in Edmonton, where it is turned into compost, some of which is used on the borough's green spaces.

The government's Weekly Collection Support Scheme has awarded a total of £250million to 85 councils across the country to maintain a weekly collection and support recycling services.

Last year, Enfield Council gave 80,000 households separate wheelie bins for garden and food waste, rubbish for recycling and general refuse.

Due to this scheme the council said that it had seen an increase in recycling rates from 27 to 40 per cent.

Alarm bells still ringing over plans

IS the approval of the business case for the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy the beginning of the end for Chase Farm?

The rubber-stamping of reforms by NHS bosses was to be expected, but campaigners are right to continue to ring the alarm about the future of primary care provision in Enfield.

The hospital will lose its A&E department, which will be replaced by an urgent care centre, but do people know where to turn in case of injury? The government is closing urgent care centres up and down the country, and the system is swiftly turning into a bit of a mess – a significant amount of NHS money will have to be spent on informing the rather confused public.

Our health service has been thrown into huge turmoil by the coalition government, and it is hard to fathom how our politicians think quality provision can be maintained in the context of cuts and endless restructuring.

Hidden war heroes

WE all have an image in our minds of the men and women who won the war for Britain.

We think of clipped vowels, stiff upper lips and either derring-do bombing raids or bespectacled clever clogs puzzling over codes.

What probably doesn't spring to mind is a group of German-accented refugees huddled around elaborate headsets at our very own Trent Park listening to Nazi generals toast Hitler.

But the native German speakers, who diligently recorded every whispered confidence and casual aside spoken between the German officers, gave the Allies an advantage they would have been lost without.

The commanding officer of the listeners was right. What they did was more powerful by far than firing a shot or driving a tank.

They hit the German army at its bomb-making U-boat hiding core and men like Fritz Lustig should be rightfully remembered as the heroes that they are.

More education is required about dementia

ON a daily basis, one comes across people who say one of their loved ones is suffering from dementia.

The number of people with dementia is growing steadily and the tragedy is that sometimes it is detected too late for professionals to act to delay the process.

It is far worse for close relatives who are not aware as to what is happening to a loved one. Not only do they get stressed but also it can be a traumatic experience for both parties as one needs to be trained to deal with dementia sufferers.

Educating at least one person per family or even teaching the younger generation at school about what dementia is can be very helpful for all. Until recently, GPs didn't consider this an issue because there was no training available at local or national level.

Much work has been done in this field by the local authority in Enfield. The older people and vulnerable adults scrutiny panel has paid particular attention to this.

Councils are now beginning to realise the seriousness and people are being appointed to train them.

Dementia awareness week will be held in Enfield in May and will be an opportunity for families and people of all ages to attend.

For more information, call social services at Enfield Civic Centre on 020 8379 1001.

The next scrutiny meeting for the older people and vulnerable adults panel will be held next Tuesday, January 15, at 7.30pm at Enfield Civic Centre. All are welcome to attend and participate as there will be a session for the public.

Councillor George Savva
Chairman of the older people and vulnerable adults scrutiny panel

Government should not have to apologise

IN response to the letter "Unmarried mums had to give up kids" (Advertiser, December 26), I ask why governments should be expected to apologise for something about which they had no responsibility?

About 60 years ago I worked as assistant matron (cook) in a girls' moral welfare home, run by the Church of England.

The matron was kind, wise and understanding, but she could not change the home circumstances of the girls involved, and usually the girls were advised that the kindest course for self and baby was to have the child adopted.

Lack of money would always have been a problem in the years before the generous social security benefits now available, besides the social stigma for both mother and child.

Occasionally, the parents of the young mother would brave the gossips and accept the baby into their home, but could not be expected to do this for a second child.

One case I well remember was that of a lonely young woman whose husband, a soldier, was killed in the Korean War.

She subsequently had been advised to have two babies adopted, but when she came into our care with the third, the matron realised her desperate need for someone to call her own, and got her a job as live-in maid with an elderly clergyman and his wife, who were delighted at the prospect of a baby in the house again.

However, some of the girls who came to us were quite immature, and were glad to be relieved of the responsibility of constant caring for a baby.

Those who felt that they "couldn't part with" their baby would put it in foster care, then have little more to do with it, except for shedding a few sentimental tears – but not bothering to make any little garments, or showing other practical signs of devotion.

On occasion, the father of the infant showed a greater sense of duty, but was spurned.

What does the writer of the letter think that government should have done? Provide rent-free housing and monetary help ad lib – as it seems to do now for any people who get into trouble through taking on more burdens than they can cope with? What would such an apology now achieve?

What parliament should apologise for is all the so-called sex education which has been dispensed to children too young to understand and without the moral training to take responsibility for their varied acts of curiosity and self-indulgence.

Mayor could have avoided steep fare hikes

AT the start of the new year, we faced inflation-busting fare rises across London transport.

For each of the last five years, London Mayor Boris Johnson has pushed up fares by more than the rate of inflation.

Under Mr Johnson, the cheapest bus or tram fare – a single Oyster pay-as-you-go fare – has soared from 90p to £1.40.

While most people have seen hardly any improvement in their income, the mayor has imposed a staggering rise in the cost of just getting to work.

Of course, investment has to be maintained in our transport infrastructure, but if Mr Johnson was really committed to meeting his election pledge to "bear down" on fares, he could have easily avoided such steep rises. If the mayor simply stopped pouring public money into his vanity projects such as the Thames cable car, he could ensure fare rises were capped at no more than the rate of inflation and could look at introducing a one-hour bus ticket.

Council has betrayed us by approving extra flats

HOW can Enfield Council regain its integrity and the trust of residents and ward councillors of Southgate Green and Bowes and David Burrowes MP, after its planning committee betrayed them by approving Notting Hill Home Ownership's proposed overdevelopment flats for 25-29 and 43-51 Telford Road, N11?

Enfield Council and its leader Doug Taylor have a public duty to ensure fair planning process.

They should veto the inadequate and mistimed subsequent published timetable of December 26 2012 allowing only 14 days' notice for current applications, including proposed overdevelopment schemes by the same developer at Bowes Road N13, reference P12-02858PLA and P12-02859PLA.

The council has an overwhelming public duty to reject these proposed overdevelopments.

The authorities are responsible for a dereliction of duty in causing the 40-year A406 planning blight, and this situation, for which an effective and proportionate restoration remedy is urgently needed.

My 1974 plan shows the A406 blight was avoidable.

The developer has failed to provide a masterplan, developers' proposals are fragmentary and there is a lack of joined-up thinking.

Town planning exists to protect people and their environment.

It requires meaningful public consultation, not lip service.

The one-size-fits-all London Plan fails to recognise these errors.

The Mayor of London has to be urgently lobbied.

Enfield Council needs adequate government money and support to enable banks to fund proper and appropriate town planning redevelopments and social justice.

Secondary eighth most popular in the country

By Ruth McKee

PARENTS are so desperate to get their children into The Latymer School in Edmonton that places there have become some of the most sought-after in the country.

The selective school, in Haselbury Road, is now the eighth most in-demand state school in England with nine applications for each of its 186 Year 7 places in 2012.

Although Latymer is a state school, admissions are tightly controlled through an 11+ style entrance exam. It is ranked outstanding by school inspectorate Ofsted.

Ayfer Orhan, Enfield Council's cabinet member for children and young people, said: "Through the hard work and dedication of headteachers, school staff, governors and council officers we have a significant number of excellent schools in our borough – all of whom help our pupils shine and achieve a good education.

"We want to work with all our schools in Enfield regardless of their admissions policy to improve standards and ensure every child in our borough receives a first rate education and the best possible start in life.

"The Latymer School has achieved consistently excellent results in GCSE and A-levels and the council is proud of its success, which is understandably a significant attraction for parents, which means it is heavily oversubscribed every year."

Oversubscribed: The Latymer School

Entry requirements for Latymer, outlined in the Council's brochure for secondary schools, state: "Only girls and boys who are deemed capable of following an education leading to the higher grades of GCSE in a full range of National Curriculum subjects are eligible to be considered for admission to the school.

"The governors will judge whether a candidate fulfils these requirements by reference to tests to be taken at the school."

It goes on to say that the school will be deemed oversubscribed once more than 186 pupils score at least 70 out of 80 in the entrance exam.

No other schools in north London made the top ten list of the most oversubscribed schools in England.

The list was topped by The Al-Hijrah School in Birmingham, which has 18 pupils applying for each of its 60 places.

Tesco comes under fire for culling sparrows nesting in supermarket

Watch the birdie: A house sparrow

By Ruth McKee

CONSERVATIONISTS in the borough say they are appalled after managers at Tesco in Ponders End admitted that the supermarket giant is killing sparrows that are nesting in the store.

Calls from concerned customers flooded into campaigners, including the local branch of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, after it was revealed that a pest control agency had been contracted to cull the entire sparrow population in the store.

It is believed the firm is using a marksman to shoot the birds.

According to the RSPB, house sparrows in London are a red-listed species, meaning they are protected under law because their numbers have been declining so rapidly in recent years.

They are protected under law by the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, which has banned culling populations of sparrows in the capital.

However, there is a loophole in the law that means that if the sparrows pose a health and hygiene risk to humans they can be culled if all other, more humane means, such as trying to catch the birds using nets or using sparrowhawks to kill the birds, have been exhausted.

But wildlife campaigners and residents maintain that what Tesco is doing could decimate the local sparrow population and stress that there are other solutions which the multinational supermarket chain could try.

"We are sympathetic to Tesco, who are struggling with what is a hygiene issue, but the preferable option is for the birds to be captured and released elsewhere," said Bob Husband, a

Nesting ground: Tesco, in Ponders End, where the sparrows have taken up residence

Cockfosters resident and group leader for the North West London RSPB.

"If Tesco, for example, puts a feeding station outside the store then that would lure the birds outside where they could be caught. Then plastic could be put up to stop them re-entering the store."

However, Tesco told the Advertiser that the problem of the birds nesting in the store had been going on for several months and insisted that it had tried every other means available. A spokesman for the supermarket chain said: "Our goal is to release any birds which have found their way into our stores, while ensuring we maintain our high standards of hygiene."

"In spite of repeated efforts to free the sparrows, including removing windows at the front of the store, using a sparrowhawk and deploying nets, we have been unsuccessful."

Vigilante cleans up streets and brightens park with balloons

By Ruth McKee

A MYSTERY figure is on a one-man mission to spruce up a corner of Bowes Park after he was spotted cleaning the streets by grateful residents and business owners.

The vigilante street cleaner of Myddleton Road, as he has been dubbed by gallery owner Mat Riches, has been seen cleaning up the area since before Christmas when he started tying balloons to trees in Bowes Park in a bid to brighten the area in time for the festive season.

"He is definitely brightening the place up," Mr Riches, who co-owns The Step cafe bar and gallery in Myddleton Road, told the Advertiser.

"Bowes Park and Myddleton Road do look quite scruffy and unloved with all the boarded-up shops, so it is fantastic that this bloke is doing this off his own back and with a smile on his face too."

"I think a few people got the wrong end of the stick and thought he was rooting through the bins for food at first, so we were all delighted and slightly puzzled when it dawned on us that he was actually just tidying the street."

So far very little is known about the mystery cleaner. Mr Riches has tried to talk to him in order to thank him for his efforts but the determined do-gooder speaks limited English. According to Mr Riches, all he says is: "Happy new year, must keep busy boss."

As well as decorating parks and picking up litter, the one-man cleaning team has rid the street of unwanted and unsightly dumped building materials – and he was last seen meticulously breaking up a 12ft long block of abandoned MDF.

Mr Riches is thrilled the area outside his business is looking so clean and tidy and is keen to extend thanks to the mystery man or, indeed, anyone who can shed any light on this real-life Womble. ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

Table tennis club calls for new members

A COUNCIL-FUNDED tennis club is looking for new members.

The 3Es Table Tennis Club is open to everyone aged seven and over and offers the chance to play for fun or compete in tournaments.

The club, which is run by parents, volunteers and members, meets at Boundary Hall, in Snells Park, Edmonton, from 5pm to 8pm on Wednesdays and costs £2 a session.

Coaches who are qualified to English Table Tennis Association Levels 1 and 2 will be on hand to offer advice and players will also have the chance to compete in competitions including the North Middlesex League.

Councillor Christine Hamilton, cabinet member for community safety, said: "The 3Es Table Tennis Club is a fantastic community resource and I'm delighted Enfield Council has decided to support it financially."

"This is yet another example of a first-rate leisure facility for young people in our borough which keeps them off the streets and doing something fun and productive with their friends in a safe and supportive environment."

The club has been funded through Enfield's safer and stronger communities board.

Woman, 23, dies in hospital two months after being stabbed

A YOUNG woman who was found stabbed near her home in Enfield Island Village two months ago died in hospital last week.

Akua Agyueman, 23, of Morris Court, Rigby Place, died at the Royal London Hospital in Whitechapel, east London, on Wednesday. A post-mortem revealed the cause of death as multiple organ failure and multiple injuries, including a stab wound to the chest and abdomen.

Ms Agyueman was found in Gunner Drive, Enfield Island Village, just after midnight on Thursday November 6. She was rushed to hospital with multiple stab wounds.

Her husband, 37-year-old Minta Addido, of the same address, was charged with the attempted murder of his wife two days later.

He is due to appear at Wood Green Crown Court on January 31.

A spokesman for the Metropolitan Police said that officers were liaising with the Crown Prosecution Service but was unable confirm if Mr Addido would be charged with murder.

By Nicola Bartlett

A DISABILITY charity based in Southgate is calling on housebound people in the borough to start making use of its services as part of their new year resolutions.

The Southgate Homebound and Disabled Association currently has about 35 members and it wants to welcome more people.

The charity, which has been running for 55 years, provides a regular service helping members to get out of the house and a monthly club night is held at Christ Church, in The Green, Southgate.

Each month the members are treated to different entertainment including singing, music groups and occasional talks. They also have the chance to join in with activities including handbell ringing.

Des Woodall, 89, is the vice-president and has been with the charity since it was started in 1957, serving first as its transport officer and then as its chairman for many years.

He says that he and his wife have made great friends through the organisation.

"We've met delightful people who are an inspiration in the way they deal with their disabilities," she said.

His son, Ian, is the current chairman. He believes there are lots of people in the area who could benefit from the service

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Leading the way: Ian Woodall, chairman of the association and he is particularly concerned about people living on their own.

"We don't have the opportunity to find these people particularly if they're stuck at home," he said.

"They don't have the opportunity to know that we're here. We know that there must be a lot of lonely people living on their own. They go from one week to another without seeing people. We want to reach out to people."

The charity uses two special buses provided by the Borough of Enfield Voluntary Association for the Disabled to get members in wheelchairs to Christ Church Hall.

The group also puts on a summer outing, taking members to enjoy cream teas in the countryside, a garden party at the home of their benefactor and a Christmas meal held at The Jolly Farmers pub, in Slades Hill, Enfield.

This year, members of Christ Church provided Christmas presents for all the members.

Anyone who is interested in becoming a member should contact Des on 020 8886 9845.

Yvonne hopes to fix it for other young mums

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Ruth McKee

A DETERMINED young mum is hoping to inspire other women by making a documentary based on the challenges facing her as a working parent.

Yvonne Omini, 24, of Mandeville Road, Enfield, is making the film with the help of Fixers, a charity project which supports 16 to 25-year-olds throughout the UK to take action and change things for the better.

She was given the opportunity to make the film after her story of overcoming odds stacked against her caught the charity's attention.

Her experiences are told through a series of 40 videos entitled The Young Mum Diaries, which she uploaded on to YouTube in the space of a month.

The mum-of-two was looking for a new direction in her life after the birth of her son just months before she turned 20.

"My experiences made me question who I was as a person," she told the Advertiser. "I felt like a failure. I blamed myself and just felt like I couldn't do anything."

But Yvonne decided that if she wanted to set a good example for her children she would have to turn her life around.

"I believe everyone has to have a very strong foundation and so I went back to education to do an access course," she said. "First thing in the morning I would drop my kids to nursery and then run down the road to get the bus to go to college."

The charity wants to help Yvonne inspire other young women, and with its support she is hoping to run a series of seminars for other young mums who want to fulfil their dreams and ambitions.

The aspiring life coach also revealed

Facing up to the challenges of life: Documentary maker Yvonne Omini that creating the YouTube videos had given her a taste of what it would be like to present a TV programme.

And, spurred on by her success, she is determined to keep doing everything she can to make something out of her life.

OPINION

MP David Burrowes

A view from Westminster

Waste plant U-turn was triumph for campaigners

CHRISTMAS came a few days early for my constituents living close to Pinkham Way when the North London Waste Authority announced its withdrawal of the planning application for a mechanical biological treatment plant there.

At long last, the north London councils – including Enfield – have accepted that plans for MBT facilities only need to be taken forward at Edmonton and not Pinkham Way.

This is a great victory for our campaign, which has repeatedly told Enfield Council and the NLWA that the massive site was in the wrong place at the wrong time.

I pay tribute to the tireless campaigning of the Pinkham Way Alliance.

We can now carry on with the regeneration of the North Circular area without hundreds of lorries transporting the region's waste to Pinkham Way.

We only need to hold off on the celebration for clarification about a substitute plan to use Pinkham Way for a delivery, sorting and transfer point for recyclables and other local waste.

Thin red line: The waste treatment plant would have dominated the skyline

The Jubilee and Olympic community spirit was still alive and well over Christmas.

Anyone who went to the St Nicholas Festival on Winchmore Hill Green or who gets involved in the loveyourdoorstep social network would be bowled over by the strength of neighbourhood goodwill.

We have the opportunity this year in Southgate with the Grovelands Park centenary to keep up the momentum for enjoying and supporting our local area.

However, there are people in our community who can be left behind.

Too many cases come to my attention where elderly people are not treated with respect and dignity.

An unwanted statistic is that Enfield has some of the highest numbers of patients dying in hospital rather than at home or in a hospice.

However, we have excellent voluntary organisations looking to buck that trend, such as North London Hospice and Nightingale Cancer Support Centre.

I also applaud those good neighbour organisations like Southgate Homebound and Disabled Association and Operation Fish which support elderly people who might otherwise be lonely and isolated.

I am resolved this year to press for improved social care, particularly at the end of life.

Last but not least, happy New Year.

Missing since Saturday: Ioannes Ioannou

Hunt for missing man, 48, who has learning issues

By Nicola Bartlett

POLICE are searching for a man from Palmers Green with learning difficulties who disappeared on Saturday evening.

Ioannes Ioannou, known as John, has been missing since 5pm on Saturday when he was seen leaving his home.

The 48-year-old, who is known to become confused and disorientated, is white, of Greek heritage, about 5ft 10ins tall and of large build and has black hair which is balding on top.

When he left his home, he was wearing black tracksuit bottoms, a yellow T-shirt, a grey V-neck jumper and a grey coat.

He has family in Camden and regularly takes a bus from Enfield to visit them.

Anyone with information about his whereabouts should call police 101 and ask to be put through to Enfield Grip and Pace.

Woman victim of indecent assault

A WOMAN was indecently assaulted outside Palmers Green Library at the end of December.

Police are appealing for witnesses following the attack on the 25-year-old in Green Lanes on Saturday December 29 at about 7.25pm.

The suspect is described as an eastern European man, aged between 23 and 25, and about 5ft 7ins tall.

He is said to have been wearing a black Puffa jacket and grey tracksuit bottoms which may have had a red stripe.

Detective Constable Arif Sharif, of Enfield Police, said he would like to speak to anyone who was in the area at the time and might have information.

Anyone with information can contact DC Sharif on 020 8345 3315 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

16–18 and UNHAPPY at school? Don't waste any more time – do something about it NOW...

STARTING 26 FEBRUARY

Level 2 Certificate in Land-based activities

Covering aspects of countryside management, arboriculture, animal care and horticulture, this exciting new course offers the opportunity to achieve a nationally recognised qualification and will lead to a variety of land-based employment opportunities, apprenticeship programmes or progression on to other higher level college courses. There are no pre-entry requirements just a clear interest in working outdoors is required.

The course runs for 2 days a week for 15 weeks on Tuesdays and Fridays (Countryside, Arboriculture, Horticulture option), or on Tuesdays and Thursdays (Animal care option), from 9:00am–4:00pm.

Horticulture student

Jay Humphreys: "I wasn't sure what I wanted to do but when A levels didn't work out I decided to follow my passion for gardening and I haven't looked back since. I couldn't have asked for better teachers, they've really inspired me."

Animal Care student

Rebekah Saunders: "Being at Capel Manor has been the best time of my life. I have many ideas of careers I can do with what I've learned and I love college. The tutors are helpful, they treat you like an adult and they push you to do better."

Arboriculture student

Hallam Westgarth: "I knew I didn't want a desk job or to continue at school but something that got me out in the fresh air. I really enjoyed climbing trees and being outdoors, I can't think of another course where you get to climb 100 feet up in a tree and see the view from there."

The curious incident of the dog on the Underground train

Doggone: Joy waiting for the Tube train to depart at Cockfosters

By Mary McConnell

THE RSPCA is waiting to rehome a dog which tried to take a ride on a Tube train.

Station staff were shocked as the Staffordshire bull terrier, who has been named Joy by the animal welfare charity, ran through the barriers at Cockfosters station and boarded a Piccadilly line train just before 7am on December 20.

The brindle and white dog worked her way through the station, jumped on the train and sat on one of the seats. At first staff thought that Joy belonged to someone – but no one came forward to collect her.

RSPCA inspector Phil Norman said: “She scampered through the station so confidently we think she must be a frequent commuter.”

And Marianne Segev, one of the nursing supervisors at the RSPCA’s Putney Animal Hospital, said: “Joy is a really nice-natured dog who gets on with humans and other animals.

“She has an ear problem which is receiving veterinary attention and is waiting for a neutering operation. After that she will be put up for rehoming.

“Her owner did not bother to microchip her or give her a collar. She deserves the chance to find a family who will cherish her.”

Anyone with information about Joy’s owner can call the RSPCA in confidence on 0300 123 8181.

Ballet school dreams coming true for Laura

By Nicola Bartlett

A YOUNG dancer from Enfield is closer to fulfilling her dream after completing her first term at a prestigious ballet school.

Laura Croom, 17, who has been dancing since she was three years old, began a course at the renowned Central School for Ballet, in Clerkenwell, in September.

She was one of only 39 pupils awarded a place on the three-year degree course in professional dance and performance.

Ms Croom said: “I have now completed the first term at the Central School of Ballet and it’s been hard work but fun too. We train at least six hours a day during the week and take classes on Saturday morning too.

“You have to be dedicated to make it to the top of this profession but it’s my dream to be a dancer at one of the leading ballet companies when I graduate. The training is very challenging, similar to the training of the best athletes, but we are all motivated by the rewards of performing.”

The three-year degree, which is unique to CSB, focuses on classical ballet, but pupils also study contemporary dance and other styles. The course allows pupils to go on tour in their third year – a key part of preparation for a professional dance career.

Ms Croom developed her love of dance at North London Dance Studio, in Green Lanes, Winchmore

Hill, and by attending two summer schools at the Central School of Ballet.

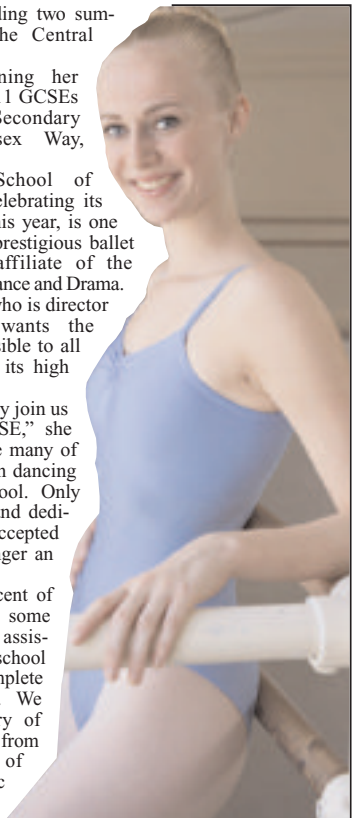

Prior to beginning her degree she gained 11 GCSEs at Southgate Secondary School, in Sussex Way, Cockfosters.

The Central School of Ballet, which is celebrating its 30th anniversary this year, is one of the UK’s most prestigious ballet schools and an affiliate of the Conservatoire for Dance and Drama.

Sara Matthews, who is director of the school, wants the course to be accessible to all dancers who meet its high standards.

“Students typically join us aged 16 after GCSE,” she said. “By this stage many of them will have been dancing since primary school. Only the most talented and dedicated students are accepted but ballet is no longer an elitist profession.

“Around 25 per cent of students are given some kind of financial assistance through the school to allow them to complete their tuition here. We have a long history of accepting students from a diverse range of social and economic backgrounds.”

Open Letter to Parents and Carers in Enfield

Dear Resident of Enfield,

Door-to-Door Survey – What do you think about Childcare in Enfield?

Thanking you in advance for your co-operation.

Enfield’ Council’s Community Access, Childcare and Early Years Service (CACEY) have asked DJS Research Ltd to carry out a study in January 2013 to gather the views of Enfield’s residents about childcare in the Borough.

We are interested in your views - whether you and your family use childcare or not and intend to obtain your views using a door-to-door survey. The results of the door-to-door survey will help the Council to develop and support services in the Borough to meet the future childcare needs of children and parents in Enfield.

Confidentiality

The door-to-door survey will be completely confidential in that it will not be possible to identify any one person’s comment in the final report. The study is for research purposes only and will not be used to sell you anything. Your name and address will not be disclosed to anyone under any circumstances. The Council will not know who has been interviewed or have access to the information provided by any individual.

How people will be chosen

The people to be interviewed for this door-to-door survey will be chosen to be representative of the families living in the area. For further information or if you have any queries regarding CACEY or the purpose of the survey, please contact Informed Families - Enfield’s Family Information Service, on 0800 694 1066 (Lines open Monday to Friday 8.45am - 12.00pm and 1.00pm 4.15pm, except Wednesday 1.00pm - 4.15pm) or email if@enfield.gov.uk.

If you have any queries about the door-to-door survey itself or how people were selected to be involved in the survey you can contact: Gayle Higginson from DJS Research on 01663 767 857 or g.higginson@djsresearch.com

If one of the researchers from DJS Research visits your home we would be very grateful if you would agree to be interviewed, as we need to speak to a wide range of people.

Thanking you in advance for your co-operation

Artist brings some colour to kids' charity

By Nicola Bartlett

AN artist has joined forces with volunteers to paint three murals on the wall of a children's charity.

Camp Simcha, which helps children from the Jewish community suffering from serious illnesses, has seen its base at The House, in Queens Road, Hendon, brightened up courtesy of Mill Hill artist Jo Corren.

And she was helped by volunteers from Mill Hill Synagogue, in Brockenhurst Gardens, to produce the three seaside murals which can be viewed through a porthole in the wall.

The project, completed last Thursday, formed part of the Mitzvah Day activities, which are mainly held in November.

As part of Mitzvah Day, people from Jewish communities take part in social and charitable activities.

Jo said: "I frequently paint murals but we have all really enjoyed doing this one because we know that when children come here it can be a much-needed escape from what is going on in their lives."

The House plays host to many of Camp Simcha's activities including its big brother and sister scheme.

That pairs young adult volunteers with sick children and their brothers and sisters, whose needs can sometimes be overlooked.

They get the kids involved in activities to help them enjoy a normal childhood including painting, arts and crafts, computer games and sensory play as well as specially organised birthday parties and summer day schemes.

Neville Goldschneider, chief executive of Camp Simcha, said: "The wall looks fantastic and we really appreciate the efforts of all involved, who have given up their time and expertise to bring a bit more colour to The House."

The charity, which opened in London in 1995, now also works in Manchester, Leeds, Glasgow, Gateshead and Liverpool, helping more than 350 children from about 100 families.

'This is no vanity gallery, it'll show really good art'

By Mary McConnell

A DISUSED bank which has been turned into an art gallery opened for the first time last weekend.

Space, in High Street, Southgate, was officially opened on Saturday night by local artists Fionn Wilson and Gosia Stasiewicz.

The gallery, which currently features their work, alongside that of Danish artist Bo Gorzelak Pedersen, will open every weekday evening and on Saturdays.

The building, which used to be a branch of Barclays, was lying empty so Gosia hit on the idea of turning it into a place to display her photographs – and from there the idea spiralled.

Artists from Moscow and Iran are expected to display their works at Space in the coming weeks and months, revealed co-founder Fionn.

"It's like a pop-up gallery but we not setting it up on a temporary basis," she said. "We know the landlord could turn around and say he has found a tenant but we are hoping he does not do that and we are not thinking along those lines."

Fionn, who works as a legal proofreader, hopes exciting artists from across the globe will agree to display their work at the gallery.

"We want to feature local artists and bring a lot of exciting art to the area – that's what we are driven by," she added.

"There are so many vanity galleries in London that you have to pay a fortune to get into and there is an awful lot of rubbish – this gallery will show really good stuff."

"We have created this gallery for the sheer love of it. I think art is vital to the health of the community."

"We want to encourage as many people as possible to come and see the work we will have here and to be inspired."

Space, is at 141 High Street, Southgate, and will be open from 5pm to 7.30pm or 8pm, Monday to Friday, and from 10am to 6pm on Saturdays. Entry is free.

Visit www.spacesouthgate.co.uk for more information.

Fionn is also seeking volunteers to work at the gallery. Anyone interested should email her at fionnw@hotmail.com

Former hostage McCarthy talks about new book

JOURNALIST and author John McCarthy will be talking about his latest book, a study of the people of Palestine, at the London Jewish Cultural Centre next Wednesday.

Mr McCarthy, who was held hostage in Lebanon for five years until his release in 1991, will be talking about You Can't Hide The Sun – A Journey Through Palestine.

In the book the 56-year-old weaves testimonies of the people of the troubled region with his own experience of living under constant threat.

In the years since his ordeal, Mr McCarthy has travelled from the shores of the Mediterranean to the Bedouin encampments of the Negev desert talking to the Palestinians who remained in Israel after its formation in 1948 and who still dare to think of it as home.

In doing so he asks the question, how can any of us thrive without a place of safety?

This event forms part of the celebrations leading up to the fifth birthday of the Hampstead and Highgate Literary Festival.

That will take place at the Ivy House headquarters of the London Jewish Cultural Centre in September, – and a host of other authors will be talking about their work including art critic Brian Sewell.

Mr McCarthy will be at Ivy House, in North End Road, Golders Green, on Wednesday, January 16 at 8pm.

Tickets are £12 in advance/£14 on the door. Visit www.ljcc.org.uk to book.

You want it, we'll cook it, vows bakery boss Andreas

The Gannets

ANDREAS Ioannou has become a TV star of late.

His Palmers Green bakery, Aroma, which serves up all sorts of sweet and savoury Greek treats, was judged the best in London in a recent ITV show aimed at finding the best bakers in the land.

And even though the Green Lanes business did not walk off with the top prize in Britain's Best Bakery, there are certainly enough delights on offer to draw customers in from all over north London.

Koubes (pastry filled with mince), honey balls and shaimishi (pastry filled with sweet semolina) are among the many treats offered at Aroma, which proves that Greek baking is not just about baklava.

Aroma, which Andreas opened 17 years ago, started off as a little business venture aimed at getting his family through the recession of the early 1990s. The family started off earning just £90 a week, but the revenue started to grow and so the business expanded.

"It was always my dream to have a shop," said Andreas who runs Aroma with the help of many members of his family.

"I started with a third of this place – we just had two tables by the wall so people could sit down and have a coffee.

"We started making bread and a few English sweets and a little bit of Greek stuff. But now the English stuff doesn't really sell because people come here for Greek things."

And despite the fact he is proud of Aroma's reputation, Andreas said he doesn't mind not winning the ITV competition.

"The TV crew were supposed to come here and film for a couple of hours and they ended up staying for the whole day," he said.

"They didn't want to leave because of the things we made and the people they were talking to here.

"The other bakers were taking it very seriously, but we were very relaxed. A lot of people said that we should have been put through to the next round."

Home comforts: Andreas Ioannou runs Aroma with family members

The relaxed attitude to the TV show is also in evidence when Andreas serves his customers.

"Anything that you want to eat we can make it for you – if you want a moussaka we can cook it," he explained. "We serve ice cream, Greek coffee, sandwiches – anything the customers ask for.

"We get our ingredients from Cyprus as the things grown there taste better – they have more sun.

"It might be much more expensive to get our potatoes imported but they taste better.

"I don't believe that you should serve something to someone else that you would throw away.

"If people give you their money, they should enjoy it."

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dancers sparkle for start of year

By Ruth McKee

FOR many revellers across the country, the first ray of sunshine on the morning of January 1 was a signal to start wending their way to bed – but for one Edmonton dance teacher, it signalled the start of one of the biggest and busiest days in his calendar.

Ken Hinds is the artistic director of African and Caribbean dance troupe Ruff Diamond and he was up at the crack of dawn, not through any late-night revelling but rather because his cohorts had been selected to join the thousands-strong

New Year's Day Parade that wound its merry way through the streets of the capital on the first day of the new year.

“It was absolutely sensational,” Ken told the Advertiser. “We were dancing with a troupe from Enfield, Badra Belly Dance, and the atmosphere was just electric.”

The artistic director was thrilled with how his eight performers had wowed spectators on the capital's crowded streets, adding that when they passed by they were greeted with huge cheers.

“When you're in that spirit, you don't feel tired,” said Ken, explaining how the eight Ruff

Diamond dancers had kept going throughout the parade, from ten o'clock in the morning to three in the afternoon.

And the 50-year-old is determined that next year's celebrations are going to be even bigger and better than ever.

“This year we made a big splash but next year with more money and more preparation time we will really put on a spectacle,” he promised.

The Ruff Diamond group is open to dancers aged 19 and over and more information about the troupe can be found at www.ruff-diamond-explosion.com

FAMILY Announcements is the page dedicated to what is going on in your family. You can place a notice or announcement in tribute to someone who has passed away or in celebration of someone who has reached a milestone in their life.

We would also be pleased to receive any wedding photographs or news of new arrivals to the family, which we will consider for publication – free of charge – on this page.

We would also like to hear from any couples celebrating a golden or diamond wedding anniversary.

If bereaved family members or their friends would like to tell us about a loved one who has died, we may be able to print an obituary. To have your news considered for this page, call the newsdesk on 020 8364 4040.

Any stories or photographs should be sent to: News Editor, The Enfield Advertiser, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, Middlesex EN1 3JT.

Please include a daytime telephone number.

10 Ways to Maximise Rental Yields

If you're thinking of dipping a toe into the buy-to-let market, there are certain steps you can take to ensure you get the best return on your investment, right from the start. Here's our quick guide to maximising your rental yields.

1. Splash the cash

Don't fall into the trap of buying a cheap property to save money. It can often pay to invest more in a decent property in a decent area, in order to get better tenants with more disposable income: people are prepared to pay a premium for key London postcodes. As the old saying goes, "you need to speculate to accumulate".

2. Mortgage research

With more buy-to-let products now surfacing, there's more choice available. Do your research, as even small differentials in interest percentages could have a big impact on your profit margins.

3. Don't fall in love with the property

It's an investment, not your own forever home. By remaining emotionally detached about your property acquisitions, you'll get a much better idea of how they can best perform as investments.

4. Vet your tenants

Finding your own tenants might be cheaper than using an estate agent, but you run the risk of problems later on. Use an established agency that will do financial checks, take up references, secure the deposit and arrange tenancy agreements.

5. Update the interior

Freshly painted white walls and the smell of new carpet can lure tenants into signing on the dotted line. Simple décor won't cost a fortune but it will make your property stand out from the crowd and ensure you get the maximum rent.

6. Renovation works

You could go one step further than a coat of paint: an extra bathroom or toilet, a new kitchen, or an upgraded bathroom could put your property into the next band on the rental ladder – time and money spent now could pay off in the long term.

7. Be on call

A good landlord attracts and keeps good tenants – if you're lucky enough to have reliable tenants who pay their rent on time and look after the property, treat them well in return. That means making repairs as quickly as possible and being on hand to answer queries.

8. Keep up with inflation

Make an annual review of the rental price and increase it accordingly. That's not to say you automatically raise the rent by hundreds of pounds as soon as the New Year comes around but it's only reasonable to tie your rental prices in with the local average.

9. Keep it occupied

Void periods are one of the fastest ways to see your money go down the drain. Make sure you build up a good rapport with agencies and tenants to minimise the periods of time when your property is vacant.

10. In it for the long term

Property investment is a long-term financial commitment. Eventually you should see your property rise in value but the current market means this simply won't happen overnight. Be patient, be a good landlord and this could be the best investment of your life.

Jimny is still making a little go a long way

By Iain Dooley

SMALL, sturdy and capable 4x4s have been a cornerstone of Suzuki's output for many years – and have generated a loyal following. The Jimny is a prime example.

Be it a holiday rental for use on rugged terrain or a trendy alternative to an urban runabout, the Jimny has a broad appeal. Updating such a popular car can be problematic – do you make radical changes, or take a conservative approach?

It doesn't take a genius to work out what direction Suzuki has taken with the latest update. The car looks a lot like its predecessor and the minimal alterations centre on appearance, with the solid mechanical base remaining unchanged.

Cosmetic tweaks to the nose and tail have resulted in a subtle improvement to the car's appearance. With its squared-off profile and bluff nose, it will always be from a different era, but that's also largely why it has character.

And remember, its narrow, upright stance is also functional. Can you imagine threading a wider car through narrow country lanes without incurring any damage?

The cosmetic changes continue inside, with the SZ3 grade cars getting new seat fabric and all cars receiving redesigned headrests and the now obligatory rear Isofix child seat mounting points.

Suzuki has left the mechanical bits alone. With a four-wheel drive system, complete with hardcore low-ratio transmission, the revised car is capable of tackling big obstacles.

Power still comes from the 1.3-litre four-cylinder petrol motor. And while 85 horsepower doesn't sound much, the small footprint and engine's flat torque curve combine to make light work of the harshest of conditions.

Switching between transmission modes and the high-low ratios of the gearbox is as easy as pressing a button – and Suzuki has also produced a Jimny with an automatic gearbox.

Its boxy shape not only gives the Jimny old-world charm, but also makes it a breeze to park and manoeuvre, whether between mighty oaks in the woods or mighty lorries parked along a high street.

Granted, the engine has to be worked hard. However, it is willing enough and more refined than you might think, allowing you to make good progress off road and still hold a conversation without having to shout when you're on tarmac.

Being a small car, the Jimny is great at low speed. Around town its compact size, visibility and raised driving position enable it to scythe through traffic, while it deflects poorly surfaced roads with the same enthusiasm as it dispatches rocks and ruts on an off-road trail.

The cabin is an object lesson in space utilisation. There's enough room up front for two adults, while the compact rear seats are really only for children. Behind them is a modest load space accessed by the side-opening tailgate.

With the seats in place there is just room for a small bag quota. Drop them and there's potential to carry larger items – although hefty outdoor kit will need to be roof-bound.

Suzuki's modest nip and tuck refresh for its long-standing Jimny does enough to keep the little rock-hopper fresh without diluting its trademark look and its performance out in the wild easily demonstrates the "if it ain't broke, don't fix it" ethos of car design.

Facts at a glance

■ Model: Suzuki Jimny SZ4, from £12,900.

■ Engine: 1.3-litre petrol unit developing 85bhp.

■ Transmission: Five-speed manual transmission as standard, driving all four wheels.

■ Performance: Maximum speed 87mph, 0-62mph 14.1 seconds.

■ Economy: 39.6mpg.

■ CO2 Rating: 162g/km.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:
1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.
Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.
Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.
Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.
Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.
Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

ASSOU-EKOTTO: I'LL WIN MY PLACE BACK

By Dominique Stafford

BENOIT ASSOUEKOTTO is confident that he will be able to win back his place in the Tottenham Hotspur side after finally making his return to action over the weekend.

The Cameroon international has effectively been Spurs' first-choice left-back since he arrived at the club in 2006, but Jan Vertonghen and Kyle Naughton have both impressed in the position since Assou-Ekotto was sidelined by a knee injury in September.

However, Assou-Ekotto has now regained full fitness and, having made his first start for four months on Saturday when Spurs beat Coventry City 3-0 in the third round of the FA Cup courtesy of goals from Clint Dempsey (two) and Gareth Bale, he firmly believes that he will quickly re-establish himself in the side.

He said: "When I first came here six years ago I was in competition with Gilberto, Lee Young-Pyo and Gareth Bale and it ended up being my place in the team, so it's not a problem.

"It was not difficult to play after so long out, because it is easier to come back into a team which is playing well. I am cool to come back, and to have a win at the end of the game, so it's cool for us, for the team and for me.

Saturday's match also saw Scott Parker make his first start of the season as he continues his comeback from the Achilles injury he suffered while on international duty for England in Euro 2012 last summer.

Parker – who had made substitute appearances in each of Tottenham's previous five matches – came through 80 minutes unscathed at the weekend, and he is understandably thrilled to be back in action.

"I'm absolutely delighted," he said. "The main thing for me on a personal level is that I got through it alright and feel good. It was a great result and a fantastic team display, especially in the first half.

"Our main focus all week was how

Back in action: Benoit Assou-Ekotto made his first start after four months on the sidelines with a knee injury against Coventry on Saturday quickly we needed to start the game. We know that if we play at the pace we can it's very difficult for teams.

"We came out of the blocks and moved the ball so quickly, got three goals and perhaps came off it a little in the second half – but it was a great performance." And assistant manager Steffen Freund was full of praise for the attitude that Parker showed while on the sidelines, especially the way he requested to play for Spurs' under-21 side to speed up his return to fitness.

"I'm really proud about Scott," he said. "It's his attitude. He knows he will improve with games and that makes me proud as a coach that an England international plays with enjoyment with the under-21s so that he can be back in the starting line-up."

Holtby thrilled by the prospect of playing for Tottenham in the Premier League

GERMAN international midfielder Lewis Holtby has described his impending move to Tottenham Hotspur as a "dream come true."

Holtby, who has an English father and a German mother, had been attracting interest from a number of leading Premier League sides, but he decided last week that he will join Spurs on a free transfer when his current contract with Bundesliga outfit Schalke expires in the summer.

The 22-year-old has three full international caps and is the current Germany under-21 skipper, and he admitted that he was relishing the opportunity to play in England.

He said: "When I was a lad, I used to sit with my dad in front of the TV and long to play there. This chance has now arrived, and I have taken it.

"I have always said that it would be realising a dream for me to play in the Premier League one day. As soon as this became reality, it was a childhood dream come true."

Meanwhile, Spurs are expected to step up their search for another striker during the current transfer window after Togo claimed that Emmanuel Adebayor had decided to represent his country during the forthcoming Africa Cup of Nations.

The 28-year-old had said last year that he would not go to the tournament, which takes place in South Africa between January 19 and February 10, but he appears to have changed his mind – with reports suggesting he flew to Ghana to meet up with Togo for their pre-tournament training camp.

Adebayor's participation in the Africa Cup of Nations would leave Jermain Defoe as the only senior striker at the club, and Spurs are expected to step up their interest in Brazil and Internacional forward Leandro Damiao.
